Description

Here's the story: 1978 Ford Bronco Ranger XLT, when we got this we put a NSS switch in & a new fuel tank. We cleaned out the hay, staples, empty Coors cans, various vet supplies, twine & other Cowgirl item's. We ran it around our lot about a mile or so then never looked at it again. Today, several years later we tossed a battery in it, filled the float bowls & it spun to life after a couple try's. It's either out of gas or needs a fuel pump. What it really needs is the right Ford person to bring it back to its glorious past. We did drive it a bit till the fuel ran out.
